

as well as some subscribers that share services with AT&T (this varies based on geography and availability) where they are in use in conjunction with T-Mobile, Verizon and Sprint.

While the provider is working on getting this resolved, ShowingTime suggests to download the ShowingTime mobile app if possible, as this allows you to bypass any provider issues that can occur with email clients and SMS carriers, since push notifications in the mobile app are not affected.

We will continue to update you as we learn more about this issue from ShowingTime.